Afghanistan.

LATEST FROM THE SEAT OF WAR.
National Associated Press to the Star.
LONDON, March 8.—A cable dispatch says it is reported that Abdur Rahman has been repulsed. Inaugural overtures incline towards the British. The Afghans are favorably impressed by the establishment of a dispensing hospital at Kabul, where eleven thousand patients have been treated during the past two months. There is much sickness among the Kuram Valley force. The British authorities have presented Shere Ali, Governor of Candahar, with a battery of six-pounders and two thousand smooth-bore Enfield rifles in recognition of his friendship. The approaching spring renders the early resumption of hostilities probable. General Roberts estimates the enemy's force at sixty thousand.

Austria.

A CROWN PRINCE BETROTHED.
VIENNA, March 8.—The Crown Prince of Austria is betrothed to Princess Stephanie Clotilde of Belgium.

Great Britain.

AS TO THE PANAMA CANAL.
LONDON, March 8.—The Standard this morning, in referring to the United States' claim for a preponderant influence in the Panama Canal, says this pretension the British Government is bound to match, and, if necessary, resist. No more at Panama than at Suez can the preponderant influence of another Power be allowed to lay hands on the trade of England.

France.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE YESTERDAY.
PARIS, March 8.—The warehouse of Messageries Nationales Company, this city, was partially destroyed by fire yesterday, doing damage to the extent of two million francs.

BURSTING OF A GUN.
ROME, March 8.—The hundred ton gun aboard the new iron clad Duilio, burst yesterday, wounding ten men. The vessel is uninjured.

THE POPE AND POLAND.

The accounts of the extreme agitation in Poland received by the Vatican and the abnormal condition of Russia have moved Leo XIII to send special instructions to the Catholic Bishops to exert their utmost power to prevent Catholics from taking part in any plots or political complications.

HARTMANN TO BE EXPELLED.

PARIS, March 8.—The French Government has taken measures to expel Hartmann, who will arrive in England to-day.

GREY ELECTED LIFE SENATOR.

M. Albert Grey has been elected Life Senator from Paris.

Germany.

INTERNATIONAL DOG SHOW.
BERLIN, March 8.—The international exhibition of dogs, under the patronage of Prince Carl of Prussia, will be opened in this city on May 26th. One thousand and two hundred dogs are entered.

INCENSED AT FRANCE'S REFUSAL.

LONDON, March 8.—Reports from St. Petersburg say that Russia is astounded at the refusal of France to extradite Hartmann. Prince Orloff, Russian Ambassador to Paris, is reported as very much incensed at the refusal.

REIGN OF TERROR CONTINUES.

LONDON, March 8.—A St. Petersburg correspondent says: It is asserted that five thousand people have been arrested. Three thousand are in the fortress of Petropaulovsk, but nihilism continues, nevertheless, and some new and fearful events are reported in St. Petersburg. The authorities having learned that suspicious individuals lived at No. 4 Bezhordkin Prospect, ordered twenty policemen and five officers to proceed thither. Five policemen noticed three men hastily leaving a shed there and rushed in.

At the same moment a terrible explosion occurred, blowing up the policemen and the shed. The house itself suffered terribly from the explosion. Immediate inquiries resulted in the discovery that the shed had contained dynamite. Hardly had this explosion become known when a great fire occurred in the street called Balaya. Three police buildings and a private house were burned down. During the fury of the fire in the police stations several policemen perished in the endeavor to save the papers.

THE MISERERE

Now Performing at the Cincinnati College of Music.

The unmistakable drift of opinion in the community appears to be in favor of seeking, if possible, to place the affairs of the College of Music in such shape that Mr. Thomas can be retained in it, and the one method for accomplishing this is to either buy out the $31,000 of paid up stock or to purchase a part of this and subscribe to sufficient additional shares to enable the friends of Mr. Thomas to reorganize the College in his interest and push on the great institution in its upward career.

The Commercial, in favoring this plan, says:

"The advantages of this arrangement are obvious:—

"1. Colonel Nichols can retire from the post, whose duties have become irksome, without criticism from a stockholder.

"2. The friends of Theodore Thomas can, in the most practical way, express their confidence in him.

"3. Mr. Thomas can stay upon his own terms and cultivate, unrestricted of all, the music that will flourish in this climate, under circumstances auspicious to his art."

The Enquirer says of the action of the Board of Directors:

"They know the inner workings of the College, and the public do not. They are more interested than the general public in the success of the College, and have given it more thoughtful attention. We are bound to assume that they have acted intelligently in the interest of the internal affairs of the College, though by their action the Cincinnati public will lose the accomplished master of orchestral music. This loss seems to be the one overtopping fact that stares the casual citizen in the face. It would be an unnatural community if, with the information in its possession, remembering (for who can forget?) Mr. Thomas as the orchestral master, the noiseless cause of music that will long sound in its memory like the sound of the flute in the ears of the 'Mystic,' it did not plead: 'Do not let Mr. Thomas go!'"

The Gazette says this morning: "The Directors of the College of Music unitedly and firmly sustain Mr. Nichols and all his administration. As Mr. Thomas is to go, it is fortunate that the College will be better without him; yet all this is perplexing to the public mind. The Gazette is for the College, with Mr. Thomas or without;

with Mr. Nichols or without; with the present stockholders and Directors or without; but it is somewhat perplexed by the turning course of things. The College, while a public benefit, is also a business corporation at the risk and under the control of the stockholders; and public affairs are necessarily made public. The Directors can not justly complain that the public think Mr. Thomas more vital to the College than Mr. Nichols, for he founded it upon Mr. Thomas. Mr. Nichols invented the College, but the essential part of the invention was Thomas. He can not reasonably expect the public to change so quickly as they are now asked to, and to accept that of Nichols as vital, but Thomas as of no account. We regard as unwise the making of any one man essential to the life of a great institution of public nature. The Directors have now to undo this as to Mr. Thomas, and they appear to be peering the mistake by making the life of the college depend on Mr. Nichols. We hope they will survive the shock of the smashing the idol on which they built, and will not shift to another foundation as brittle, and that the college will go onward and upward as they say they anticipate from this deliverance.

INTERVIEW WITH MR. LAWRENCE MAXWELL, JR.

Mr. Lawrence Maxwell, of the law firm of King, Thompson & Maxwell, who has been reported as having circulated a subscription in the Court-house on Saturday, and to have secured subscriptions to sixty shares of stock, was seen this morning by a Star reporter and said that the above statement was true; and, moreover, that of the original $31,000 of stock subscriptions only forty per cent. had been paid. He said that from the feeling among the friends of Mr. Thomas, no doubt existed in his mind that a sufficient further sum could be raised in a short time to reorganize the college in the interest of Mr. Thomas' retention.

He said he thought that the feeling in the community was unmistakably that Mr. Thomas is the College of Music and that his resignation means the resignation of the present able corps of teachers as well as the practical abolition of the institution. He scouted the idea of Mr. Thomas wishing to leave Cincinnati; said that he had fitted up his home at large expense with inland woods and objects of taste, has his children here at school and is generally settled to stay. Mr. Brown, of the Board of Trade, he mentioned as one of Mr. Thomas' will proceed energetically to the raising of the necessary sum to place the College on a solid footing and to so reorganize it that Mr. Thomas' resignation can be withdrawn.

He added that the letter sent by the Committee to Mr. Thomas, which led to the latter's resignation, was not in any manner an answer to Mr. Thomas' stated grievances, but was rather intended for publication in the newspapers and to place the most favorable side of the Board's action before the public.

Mr. Maxwell is entirely confident that Mr. Thomas will yet be retained at the head of the College of Music.

A LADY SAYS A WORD.

To the Editor of the Star:

Will you allow a lady to say a word in the Nichols-Thomas College of Music controversy. The especial point I desire to note is that Mr. Thomas is not "a hard person to get along with," as the Nichols faction assert and as they have made even Mr. Springer believe. That Mr. Springer has been imposed upon in this particular is very clear to all who have any connection with the College. Certainly Mr. Thomas has too much respect for Mr. Springer to act discourteously to him.

Mr. Springer's information must, therefore, come from others, and as he has been intimately associated with Mr. Nichols, it is natural to put him down as Mr. Springer's authority on this matter, especially as he mentions a conversation on this very subject in which he told Mr. Nichols that he believed his (Nichols') conduct with Mr. Thomas had improved him. The testimony of those about the College is without exception that Mr. Thomas is in no sense discourteous or hard to get along with. At his hands strangers and acquaintances who come to him are alike treated with kindness.

Only the other day I heard a lady remark: "Did you ever see any one like him? No matter how poorly dressed a girl may be or how poor a voice she may have, Mr. Thomas treats her with as much consideration as if she were the wealthiest lady or the most eminent prima donna in the land." In fact the only people who find fault with Mr. Thomas are those who are in a position to do so, and are disappointed to find themselves treated just as other people are.

JEFF. DAVIS ON TRAMPS.

He Disapproves of Slang, and Prefers to Call Them Vagrants.

(Jackson (Miss.) Clarion.)

The Hon. Francis A. Wolf, of Tippecanoe, has kindly placed at our disposal the following letter to him from ex-President Davis, upon a subject that has engaged the attention of the Legislature. It was not written for publication, but contains nothing that need be held from the public. Mr. Wolf, it will be remembered, was one of the immortal 1st Mississippi regiment who followed the fortunes of Mr. Davis, and made the fame of Mississippi in the war in which it played so conspicuous and glorious a part.

BOUVIER, Feb. 19, 1880.

Hon. Francis A. Wolf:

DEAR FRIEND—I have read your remarks on the proposition to amend the article in the code by striking out the word "tramp" and substituting that of "vagrant." I was not only pleased with your speech, but I concur with you entirely as to the propriety of your proposed amendment. The word "tramp" has now a temporary significance admitted to be expressive, as all slang is, for the time being and among those by whom it is accepted. But one does not look for slang in a legal statute, and with all due deference, it does not seem to me it ought there to be found. Your substitute, on the other hand, is a good English word with a fixed meaning, and the use of it struck at one of the great political and social evils of our time—vagrancy.

You and I in our soldier days, "tramped" over valley and mountain, and Mississippi seemed to think our steps had been in the path of her honor and glory, and that was a part of your adventurous life to which you modestly failed to allude in your telling and sometimes brilliant speech, to the Legislature. Whenever one of the old Mississippi regiment does something beautiful or great, it fills my heart with a joy few other things could give.

With cordial regard and best wishes, I am yours, faithfully,

JEFFERSON DAVIS.

The ordinance of baptism was administered to several candidates at the Central Christian Church last evening.

OVER THE BRIDGE.

COVINGTON.

Dave Cree attended church yesterday, so it is said.

Col. Frank Mead is the latest announcement for Sheriff.

Mr. Mike Farrell has gone to St. Louis to accept a lucrative position.

Judge Trimble celebrated the Sabbath yesterday like any other man.

The Sunday Committee were sober yesterday. Sunday law, we believe.

The Sunday Law is fruit for the reporters, it furnishes so many more subjects.

Five hundred dollars' worth of Cincinnati beer was guzzled by Covington people yesterday.

Mr. Albert Kerner, of Sixth and Main, delights to-day in being the daddy of a bouncing eleven pound boy.

There was 1,156 more cash fares collected on the Newport and Covington Bridge yesterday than ever was collected before.

There will be a musical and literary entertainment at the residence of Mrs. Geo. Cokers, on West Fifth street, on Thursday evening.

Mr. Henry Dressman returned to-day from Owen County, where he has just completed a fine pike, which highly pleased the people.

The Enquirer Company have employed the enterprising law firm of Hallam & Perkins to protect their interests against the Sunday laws.

Suit was filed in the Chancery Court to-day by John C. Voight and wife against J. G. C. Roeder for the foreclosure of a mortgage of $400.

Henry Hackett, gasoline contractor, declined to light up his street lamps last night, pleading the Sunday law. Deputy Marshal Linnenmann decided the plea defective, and charged Hackett with the whole number as "outs."

Miss Lulu Brooke, one of Covington's most gifted and attractive young ladies, has returned from her visit to Philadelphia, the joy of her many friends and admirers, and will make her home with Mrs. M. Jamison, 723 Madison street.

The actions of Frank Berte and Henry Wischke yesterday at the Eleventh-street M. E. Church are seriously condemned by good citizens. The idea of going into a church during the progress of religious worship and whistling for their dog to come out, is ridiculous. Mr. Berte, although, denies that he whistled, and gave himself up to Squire Duvencik to-day.

Sarah Cooney was found in a very drunken condition last night and was brought in. She tried to explain it to His Honor the Mayor to-day, and claimed she was celebrating the Sunday law; but the Judge only smiled and said: "The aggregation of five-lastic germs evidence, an irresistible tendency to corollate the molecules in an inverse ratio to the capillary process of differentiation and $4 will settle the bill."

A meeting of the saloon-keepers was held to-day at Jake Gehrum's. The subject was discussed that the Sunday law applied to all men who did manual labor on Sunday, including preachers. Mr. Theo. Leyerman denounced the preacher portion of it, nobly. A resolution was finally adopted to employ an attorney and have the law rigidly enforced and to apply to all classes. They have the names of a number of violators that will be summoned to appear before the Mayor.

The street cars and Bridge Company did a land office business yesterday. Not a saloon, drug store, periodical store or barber shop was open, and, in fact, business of every kind was closed. Cigar stores were also closed, and no milk wagons delivered milk. John Weaver closed his restaurant and went to church. Jerry Reed did no work yesterday, but the men at the Gasworks put in a full day. The usual heat at Mitchell and Tranter's mill was dispensed with, thus throwing five hundred men idle to-day.

MAYOR'S MONDAY MELTING.—The sad result of the enforcement of the Sunday law is properly observed on the Marshal's State where there are registered more than 100 law-breakers to-day than there has been for the past six months. Jessie Fields was the first who was called to answer and the evidence elicited in the case showed that he had been very drunk and exceedingly disorderly and carrying concealed weapons. He was fined $50 and costs.

Dennis Logan was disorderly just $4 worth yesterday, according to his Honor's judgment. Charles Cole paid $4 for an overload of Ohio whiskey. John Morris tried to black a colored woman's eye at the Work-house Church the other evening, and his Honor told Billy to put $13 after his name. John Kelly refused to go home when the coppers told him, and the result is that he is compelled to pay $8 for not taking sound advice. Thomas Gadaker failed to display a signal light and only paid $1. The arresting officers were McGraw, one, Cutler and Holtrop, three each. Barton, Furber, Pomper, Seymour and Maurer, one case each.

During his sermon at the First Presbyterian Church last night, Rev. F. D. Moore said: "There is not a family in this congregation that has not violated the Puritan Sabbath." You ride on Sunday in your carriages, while your servant drives the horse. You sit in your cushioned pews praising the Lord, while your cooks are laboring in your kitchens preparing three good and sumptuous Sunday meals, and yet you dare to condemn others who happen to entertain different opinions from you. Fine on it! I shall take my pleasure and comfort as I did on this Sunday, and as I propose to do next Sunday, and every succeeding Sunday, and my children shall do so, and indulge in innocent and pleasant amusements, and I think I will have kept the Sabbath day properly. Should any of you think differently, pursue your own course, but act consistently. There is a principle higher than the Sabbath day. It is the will of God, which is higher than that of man. When we can discover the will of God, it is our duty as Christians to do it, and then all of these acrimonious disputes will roll under us."

The congregations of the Christian Churches of Cincinnati and Covington will meet to-morrow evening at the new Christian Church, this city, to discuss home mission work.

A petition signed by a large number of the residents of the Fifth Ward was put in circulation to-day, asking Henry Weweller, to resign, as he was entirely unfit to represent the people of that ward.

The Sons of Temperance held another rousing meeting yesterday afternoon at Smalley's Hall. Rev. J. Tunnison, of Covington, and Mr. Myers, of Cincinnati, addressed the meeting. The former made an earnest and eloquent appeal in behalf of the cause, and at the close twenty-five signatures were obtained.

Charles Morton, a ship carpenter residing at 140 Central avenue, was brought home this morning with his left leg broken close to the knee and other severe injuries. He was at work on a steamboat near the foot of Ludlow street, Cincinnati, when a stage plank fell on him. Dr. R. A. Dameron set the broken limb.

In the Circuit Court Saturday Sarah E. Wrightson and her husband, Thomas Wrightson, filed suit against John Olive and others for $30,000 damages for an alleged unlawful advertising and sale of Mrs. Wrightson's property for a debt contracted by Thomas Wrightson. The property was sold to satisfy lien notes held by a party, and the sale was effected to satisfy the notes and confirmed by the Chancellor. The case in which the sale was made is still pending in the Court of Appeals.

For pure unadulterated cheek Rube McDonald takes the cake. He has secured the signatures of three of the Board of Bridge Directors asking them to give him a salary of $150 a year for acting as President. This office has always been considered as a high honor in the eyes of the people without a salary. It also may be interesting to know that by improper management of the bridge it has been screwed to such an extent as to lift it from the middle pier.

The statement in Saturday's STAR in reference to the death of Mrs. Julia Louvet was slightly incorrect, as several kind-hearted ladies, Mrs. Wines, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Cree, Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Tyke Moeller, were present, and rendered all the assistance possible previous to her death. The ladies also perfected arrangements for the funeral which took place to-day, and Mrs. Pines, residing on the corner of Front and Monmouth streets, took charge of the child, a pretty and sprightly little girl of three years. No tidings have yet been heard from the unnatural father. It is said that the father of Mrs. Louvet resides at Morrowtown, Ohio.

Readers of the STAR will remember the suicide, last December, of Mrs. Kessel, residing on Williamson street, near Monmouth. The loss of her pension papers so preyed upon her mind that she concluded to end her life by drowning herself in the eastern of her premises. Several persons acquainted with the family spread the report that Mrs. Kessel's children had been a great source of annoyance to her, and these persons went so far as to state that the papers had been destroyed by the children. Since then, Peter, the next eldest son, has done everything in his power to find the missing documents, and was last Saturday rewarded by finding them in the Pension Office in Cincinnati, where they had been lost by Mrs. Kessel three months before her death. This certainly establishes the fact that the children were not so bad to their mother as people represented them.

ADDITIONAL SUBURBAN.

AVONDALE.

The young people of Avondale are very properly beginning to pay attention to their physical development. There are now in the village several archery and baseball clubs, but the latest is the Walking and Running Club. The latter gave an exhibition on the grounds of Mrs. O. A. Tyler last Saturday. The attendance was large and the enjoyment immense. The following is a list of the participants in the running match and the score of each.

DAYTON, OH.

Miss Florence Gunnison is again quite ill at her home on Fourth street.

The Constitution and By-laws prepared by Mr. Minor were adopted, and already negotiations are in progress for the purchase of a number of the best English bows, &c., and the prospects are that the new club, under the leadership of Mr. Minor, who is a veteran in the "use of the long bow," will soon occupy a leading position among the Toxophilites. MADE THEM MAD.

A Disappointed Paterson Audience Demolishes the Theater.

National Associated Press to the Star.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Wigwam Theater, Paterson, has for some time been managed by Henry Ackerman & Co. The lease on the building and the city license expired Saturday night, but the managers nevertheless announced a performance for the night, and the house was packed. When 8 o'clock arrived the curtain did not rise.

The actors and actresses, it appears, could not find the manager, who had promised to pay them before beginning the performance, and their conclusion not to act unless paid was soon communicated to the audience, which had become restive. The box office was found deserted, and the actors and actresses left the theater.

The audience proceeded to take summary vengeance upon the owner by smashing several hundred chairs, taking down the scenery and breaking up the properties and furnishings. Everything was a wreck before the crowd, numbering several hundred, left the building and went to the residence of Ackerman, who, besides his Theater, conducted a saloon and restaurant. They called for Ackerman, and getting no answer, took further satisfaction by demolishing the windows and shutters of the restaurant. No arrests have been made.

For weeks I had not been able to step on my foot; but I used the St. Jacobs Oil, and all pain disappeared in a short time.

Dr. J. Gay Lewis, Fulton, Ark., says: "After a practice of 15 years, I pronounce TUTT'S PILLS the best anti-bilious medicine ever made."
